FRANCE SEES ZERO HOUR APPROACHING

Route 22 Traffic to Be Resumed Next Week

STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS HEED C. OF C. REQUEST

Road Opens For Pumpkin Show And Will Not Be Closed, Director Says
CONTRACTORS PRAISED
Only 160 Working Days Used Of 280 Permitted Under Specifications

State highway department officials announced Wednesday that Route 22, reconstructed west of the Scioto River in an effort to escape the stream's flood waters, will be opened for traffic next Wednesday to accommodate Pumpkin Show visitors and will remain open even after the fall festival has ended.

Grover Clements, engineer for Division No. 6, with headquarters in Delaware, and acting this week as director of the Ohio highway department, viewed the improvement Wednesday in company with Perry Schumaker, assistant division engineer in charge of construction. Mr. Clements declared that traffic would be permitted to pass over almost the entire construction job but would be detoured to the old road at the west end of the project. The western section is not safe enough for travel at this time, Mr. Clements said. Traffic on Route 56 will be permitted to cross the new highway at the west end of the work.

Barricades, well-marked and well-lighted, will be placed at several sections along the highway in an effort to prevent accidents. It is probable that at least four of the 15 state highway patrolmen promised to Circleville for the Pumpkin Show will be used to patrol the new road. Mr. Clements and Mr. Schumaker said that highway department watchmen would be assigned to the work to aid traffic, and that numerous flares would be spotted at various points.

Anxious to Cooperate
"We are anxious to cooperate to the fullest extent with project officials, with Circleville's Chamber of Commerce and with the farm folk who have been forced to make a six mile detour around the project in order to reach Circleville. We will see that the road is open for the Pumpkin Show and that it is not closed again to traffic," Mr. Clements said.

The highway official was high in his praise of the Lewis and Frisinger Co., contractors on the road job, which is the largest ever undertaken in Pickaway County. The project, which calls for 280 working days, has been almost completed and only 160 working days have been used, he said. Mr. Clements said that the work when completed will be a model which will attract many road builders and others who will inspect it.

Neutrality Foes Discuss Plans

OPPOSERS OF THE NEUTRALITY DEBATE, SENATORS CHARLES W. TOBEY OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, LEFT, (FOR) AND JOHN DONAHER OF CONNECTICUT (AGAINST), DISCUSS THE PROPOSED CHANGE IN AN ANTECHAMBER OF THE SENATE CHAMBER. A MOVE TO RECESS THE SENATE FOR THREE DAYS AND CEASE THE NEUTRALITY DEBATE TO GIVE THE PRESIDENT AN OPPORTUNITY TO OFFER HIMSELF AS MEDIATOR IN EUROPE'S WAR ENCOUNTERED STIFF OPPOSITION FROM THE PRESIDENT'S SENATE SPOKESMEN.

Foreign Policy Powers May Be Taken By Solons

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—A proposal that congress take over a major portion of America's foreign policy direction while Europe is at war was injected into the neutrality fight today.

Senator Wheeler (D) Montana, sponsored the suggestion, and was joined by Senator Clark (D) Missouri, who planned to propose a method for such action in his neutrality speech to the senate this afternoon.

Wheeler said he did not intend his proposal "as a criticism of the White House or state department," charged normally with the function of foreign policy direction.

158,000 BRITISH SOLDIERS READY ON FRENCH SOIL

LONDON, Oct. 11—A total of 158,000 British troops has been transported to France during the five weeks since outbreak of war in Europe, War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha told the House of Commons today.

"Britain," the secretary said, "has more than fulfilled the undertaking recently given to France to dispatch to France in event of war a British expeditionary force of a specified dimension within a specified time."

"We have also created our base and lines of communication so as to assure a regular flow of supplies and munitions of every kind. 'Nor are these contingents at present across the channel the last which will arrive.'"

Convoys bearing British troops have averaged three nightly, Hore-Belisha said.

A. F. L. SIDESTEPS ARGUMENT OVER CASH AND CARRY

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11—Side-stepping a definite statement for or against either the "cash and carry" neutrality plan or retention of the arms embargo, the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor today referred the entire subject of neutrality to its executive council.

Important points in the resolutions committee report, adopted by the convention, were these:

1. That offers to mediate the European conflict now might be premature "and prove without successful results."
2. That policies which are being advocated now and which would seem to be neutral and justified might eventually "force us into war."
3. That labor should be represented on every emergency board.

Russian, Lithuanian Mutual Aid Pact Signed; City Of Vilna Restored

U. S. HELP MAY BE ASKED

Helsingfors Believes That America May Take Action To Stall Moscow

MOSCOW, Oct. 11—Conclusion of a Russo-Lithuanian mutual assistance pact was announced today as Soviet leaders turned their attention to Finland as the next field for expanding Russian influence.

The pact signed by Russia and Lithuania amounts to a military alliance under which the Soviets are granted the right to keep army and air force units in Lithuanian territory.

In exchange, Lithuania regains its ancient capital, Vilna, which was seized by Poland in 1921 and which was occupied by Soviet troops following the German invasion of Poland.

Although the Lithuanian pact was regarded as vitally important in the Soviet bid for domination of the Baltic region, interest remained centered on the negotiations with Finland, which are opening today in a tense atmosphere.

HELSINGFORS, Oct. 11—Taking drastic military precautions against a possible sudden Soviet attack, Finland's government prepared today to defend its independence against the threat of expanding Soviet Russian domination of the eastern Baltic region.

Minister of Interior U. K. Kekkonen warned the populace to prepare for "all eventualities and all dangers of modern warfare," which he said necessitated evacuation of civilians from Helsingfors, Viborg, Abo and Tammenfors.

FIORIELLO NAMES LOU GEHRIG AS PAROLE OFFICER

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Lar-ruping Lou Gehrig, slugging first baseman of the world's champion New York Yankees who has been ailing for several months, today was appointed as a New York parole commissioner at $6,000 a year.

Gehrig was forced to quit active play with his teammates in mid-season when stricken with a form of infantile paralysis.

His appointment to the parole commissionership was made by Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia, ardent supporter of the Yankees and their No. 1 fan in the recent World's Series in which the New York club defeated the Cincinnati national league team in four straight games.

ADOLPHUS C. SKINNER, 77, DIES IN CLARKSBURG HOME

Adolphus C. Skinner, 77, vice president of the Clarksburg Commercial Bank and a barber in the Ross County village for the last 48 years, died Tuesday at 8 p. m. at his home. Mr. Skinner was widely known in the Clarksburg community where he had been active in civic affairs for many years.

He is survived by his widow, Kathryn; a daughter, Mrs. Mary McGhee, and a son, Guy, all of Clarksburg.

The funeral will be Friday at 2 p. m. at the residence, the Rev. G. C. Reed of the Methodist church in charge. Burial in Brown's Chapel cemetery will be in charge of A. W. Kirk, New Holland.

Mr. Skinner was a brother-in-law of Edwin Shanton, Pinckney Street.

'Thrill' Killer Pleads For "Another Chance"

Gallogly, Scion Of Rich Family, Surrenders To Dallas Authorities

DALLAS, Texas., Oct. 11—Insisting he seeks only "justice, and a chance to live an honest life," Richard Gallogly, convicted "thrill" slayer and scion of a wealthy Atlanta family, today prepared to fight extradition to Georgia and return to the prison from which he fled last Friday.

Gallogly, whose escape while he was being transferred from an Atlanta hospital to the Tatt-nall, Georgia, state prison brought charges of favoritism and coddling, gave himself up in Dallas yesterday, announcing to Sheriff Smoot Schmid: "I fled to Texas to get justice. If the Texas governor refuses to grant extradition, I'll have a chance to live an honest life."

He denied he was guilty of the crime for which he already has served ten years of a life sentence, and defended the two guards from whose custody he escaped, saying they had not helped him.

Gallogly said his attractive young wife, the former Vera Hunt, whom he married four months ago after meeting her when she came to prison with a group of entertainers, had given to Dallas with him, but had left him a few hours before he gave himself up.

R. A. Matthews, a special prison guard, was arrested in Atlanta yesterday on charges he aided Gallogly in the escape. The prisoner had been taken to the hospital on his plea he was tubercular, but was being sent back to prison after doctors said they could find nothing wrong with him.

Although Gallogly was said to have produced a gun to make good his escape with his wife, he said in Dallas he had had no gun, but had bluffed the guards with "a little black stick."

Gallogly's mother, Mrs. Worth E. Yankey, who with his wife had been permitted to ride with him back to prison, refused to join her son, and was left with the guards when the prisoner and his wife drove away.

Gallogly and a college chum, George Harsh, member of a wealthy Milwaukee family, were convicted in 1928 of the holdup murder of Willard Smith, a druggist. They were quoted as saying they had committed the crime for a "thrill." Harsh was sentenced to death but Gallogly, after two mistrials, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

DONAHEY STANDS AGAINST F. D.'S NEUTRALITY ACT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Senator Donahay (D) Ohio announced today that he would vote against the administration's neutrality bill repealing the mandatory arms embargo, and placing munitions sales to belligerents on the so-called cash-and-carry program.

Donahay, in a statement addressed "to Ohio folks" stated flatly that if the administration's bill is adopted that it is likely to draw this country into the European war.

"If cash-and-carry is adopted in 1939, and the war game runs true to form in Europe, we may have cash-and-credit in 1940, and cash-and-boys in 1941," Donahay said.

He added: "I shall vote 'no' on the proposal of 'cash-and-carry' of implementation of war intended for European belligerents."

"The demand for lifting the embargo on munitions and implementation of war does not in Ohio come from the smallest unit of government—the family, where father, mother and the children gather at the hearthstone and plan for the peace and safety of all."

DIES DEMANDS STORY OF OGPU

Gen. Krivitsky Called For Questioning; Series Of Articles Recalled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Without advance notice, the house Dies committee today suddenly summoned the former head of the Soviet Union's western European military intelligence, Gen. W. G. Krivitsky, to testify on military espionage and OGPU activities in this country.

Krivitsky, as he took the stand, was accompanied by a Russian interpreter, Boris Shub, of New York City. The general, in hiding in this country since he fled from Paris in October last year, drew national attention six months ago by predicting in a series of magazine articles that an alliance between the Soviet Russia and the Hitler government would be consummated.

Krivitsky broke with the Soviet government in 1937 after he had seen a number of life-long friends "purged" and he, himself, had been ordered to return from Paris to Moscow for what he believed to be his own extermination.

An operative in the Soviet military intelligence from its inception in 1919, he rose to be head of the western European division in 1933, with headquarters in Rotterdam, Paris and other metropolitan centers.

10,000 DODGE EMPLOYEES SENT BACK HOME AGAIN

DETROIT, Oct. 11—Ten thousand Dodge plant workers were sent home today for the fourth straight day as production tie-ups continued in the plant.

Chrysler Corporation officials renewed their charges of a production slow down against the CIO's Auto Workers Union, while union leaders again countered with the charge that the corporation had speeded the assembly line beyond the capacity of the workers.

Terrifying 'Death Ray' Perfected, Destroyed

DENVER, Oct. 11—A story of having witnessed demonstrations of a "death ray" so terrifying in its possibilities for destruction that it was destroyed by its inventor was related in Denver today by Alfred G. Burns, president of the Inventors of America.

Burns, whose home is in Alameda, Cal., said the device was perfected in 1939 by Dr. Antonio Longoria, wealthy Cleveland, O. scientist.

The Alameda inventor, who said he has been a close friend of Dr. Longoria for 10 years, declared he had been invited to two of the "death ray" demonstrations. He related:

"I saw the apparatus destroy mice and rats and once saw a full-grown dog die instantly by the invisible ray."

"Dr. Longoria said that the ray

HEAVY RAIN ENDANGERS NAZIS IN SIEGFRIED LINE

LONDON, Oct. 11—The London Daily Mail reported from Basle today that the continued rise of the Rhine River is threatening to flood sections of Germany's Siegfried line between Freiburg and Offenbach.

If the river rises another two feet, said the dispatch, the fortifications will be inundated. It stated the river rose five feet during the last few days and that heavy rain is still falling.

COUNTIAN HURT FATALLY WHEN HORSES BOLT

Carl Fisher, 50, Tenant On Armstrong Farm, Dies In Hospital

Injured Tuesday afternoon when a team of colts he was driving hitched to a manure spreader ran away, Carl Mason Fisher, 50, died of a fractured skull in Berger Hospital nearly four hours later. Mr. Fisher was a tenant on the Pearl Armstrong farm in Salt Creek Township, three miles north of Laureville. The accident happened in a field on the farm.

Just how Mr. Fisher was injured is not known. Mrs. Fisher ran to the field in which he had been working when the team came to the house. She found her husband unconscious, but whether the team struck him or whether the farm equipment hit his head is not certain. Dr. C. T. Grattidge of Laureville, who was called, had Mr. Fisher brought to Circleville in the H. E. Defenbaugh and Son ambulance. He died at 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Mr. Fisher was born in Fairfield County and spent much of his life there. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth, two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral will be Friday at 1:30 p. m., the Rev. Paul C. Scott of Adelphi officiating. Burial will be in Elmwood cemetery, Lancaster, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

15 YEARS OF BRUTALITY END; HUSBAND SHOT DOWN

AKRON, O., Oct. 11—Climaxing what she asserted were fifteen years of brutality on the part of her husband, Mrs. Maud Hubbard, 42, mother of four children, today faced a charge of slaying him with a revolver she bought six weeks ago for self-protection.

Held without bail in Summit County jail, Mrs. Hubbard, charged with first degree murder, awaited action of the grand jury.

"I'm sorry, I loved this man," she told police, "but I was forced to do it."

The husband, H. Sherman Hubbard, 44, was superintendent of an Akron laundry and cleaning company.

German Artillery Pointing Barrages At Maginot Fortifications

BERLIN, Oct. 11—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is still awaiting a final, unequivocal "yes or no" answer to his peace proposals before Nazi Germany concludes that there is no alternative to unrestricted war in Europe.

Authorities German quarters insisted today that in his radio address last night, Premier Edouard Daladier of France had not slammed the door with utmost finality on the Fuehrer's peace proposals.

PARIS, Oct. 11—Judging from German military dispositions, plus constantly increasing activity and pressure by Reich patrols on the Western Front, the zero hour of a great offensive in Europe's war was fast approaching today.

HOLLAND MENACED?

LONDON, Oct. 11—"Chancellor Hitler will launch a military attack against Holland within the next 30 days," Otto Strasser, once one of the Fuehrer's trusted aides, told the London Daily Mail in an interview published today. Strasser, now an exile from the Reich at Zurich, Switzerland, cited a high military source as authority for his statement. He also said, according to the Mail, that Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German air chief, has an aerial plan to break the Anglo-French blockade.

pected the big push to begin yesterday, October 10, but it was delayed by the launching of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's peace offensive and his determination to await final rejection by the allies of his overtures before starting things.

Most competent military observers now have selected the period from October 15 to 25 for commencement of the offensive.

Today's communique, No. 75, declared:

"Enemy patrols involving strong effective again were repulsed during the night to the south of Saarbrücken and in the region south of Pirmasens."

The activity of German infantry in those areas was heavier than ever. These points are heavily wooded, affording excellent cover for patrols ranging in size from a dozen men to full companies of 150 troops, and they are operating continuously.

Patrol Wiped Out
The Germans are said to be under instructions to take prisoners at any cost. Consequently their activity is becoming increasingly daring, bringing one patrol, for example, up to within 20 yards of a point on the French line early this morning before it was wiped out by hand grenades.

Rain is now a daily occurrence on the front, and scenes reminiscent of World War days are staged as the patrols slither through the mud, their night activities lighted up by the explosion of hand grenades and the bursts of very bombs.

Thus far, the Germans have been almost completely unsuccessful in their quest for prisoners. The only French taken are a few pilots who have been shot down (Continued on Page Two)

SWANK FLEES WORKHOUSE

The sheriff's department was notified Tuesday evening that Alva Swank, 29, of Darbyville, escaped during the afternoon from the Columbus workhouse.

Swank was fined $100 and costs and committed to the workhouse on September 26 by B. T. Hodges, justice of peace, on a charge of intoxication.

Neutrality Foes Discuss Plans

OPPONENTS of the neutrality debate, Senators Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire, left, (for) and John Donaher of Connecticut (against), discuss the proposed change in an anteroom of the senate chamber. 'Thrill' Killer Pleads For "Another Chance"

Gallogly, Scion Of Rich Family, Surrenders To Dallas Authorities

DALLAS, Texas., Oct. 11—Insisting he seeks only "justice, and a chance to live an honest life," Richard Gallogly, convicted "thrill" slayer and scion of a wealthy Atlanta family, today prepared to fight extradition to Georgia and return to the prison from which he fled last Friday.

Gallogly, whose escape while he was being transferred from an Atlanta hospital to the Tatt-nall, Georgia, state prison brought charges of favoritism and coddling, gave himself up in Dallas yesterday, announcing to Sheriff Smoot Schaid:

"I fled to Texas to get justice. If the Texas governor refuses to grant extradition, I'll have a chance to live an honest life."

Gallogly and a college chum, George Harsh, member of a wealthy Milwaukee family, were convicted in 1928 of the holdup murder of Willard Smith, a druggist. They were quoted as saying they had committed the crime for a "thrill."

Harsh was sentenced to death but Gallogly, after two mistrials, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

DONAHEY STANDS AGAINST F. D.'S NEUTRALITY ACT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—Senator Donahey (D) Ohio announced today that he would vote against the administration's neutrality bill repealing the mandatory arms embargo, and placing munitions sales to belligerents on the so-called cash-and-carry program.

Donahey, in a statement addressed "to Ohio folks" stated flatly that if the administration's bill is adopted that it is likely to draw this country into the European war.

"If cash-and-carry is adopted in 1939, and the war game runs true to form in Europe, we may have cash-and-credit in 1940, and cash-and-boys in 1941," Donahey said.

He added: "I shall vote 'no' on the proposal of 'cash-and-carry' of implements of war intended for European belligerents."

"The demand for lifting the embargo on munitions and implements of war does not in Ohio come from the smallest unit of government—the family, where father, mother and the children gather at the hearthstone and plan for the peace and safety of all."

DENVER, Oct. 11—A story of having witnessed demonstrations of a "death ray" so terrifying in its possibilities for destruction that it was destroyed by its inventor was related in Denver today by Alfred G. Burns, president of the Inventors of America.

Burns, whose home is in Alameda, Cal., said the device was perfected in 1939 by Dr. Antonio Longoria, wealthy Cleveland, O., scientist.

The Alameda inventor, who said he has been a close friend of Dr. Longoria for 10 years, declared he had been invited to two of the "death ray" demonstrations. He related:

"I saw the apparatus destroy mice and rats and once saw a full-grown dog die instantly by the invisible ray."

HEAVY RAIN ENDANGERS NAZIS IN SIEGFRIED LINE

LONDON, Oct. 11—The London Daily Mail reported from Basle today that the continued rise of the Rhine River is threatening to flood sections of Germany's Siegfried line between Freiburg and Offenburg.

If the river rises another two feet, said the dispatch, the fortifications will be inundated. It stated the river rose five feet during the last few days and that heavy rain is still falling.

Carl Fisher, 50, Tenant On Armstrong Farm, Dies In Hospital

Injured Tuesday afternoon when a team of colts he was driving hitched to a manure spreader ran away, Carl Mason Fisher, 50, died of a fractured skull in Berger Hospital nearly four hours later. Mr. Fisher was a tenant on the Pearl Armstrong farm in Salt Creek Township, three miles north of Laurelville. The accident happened in a field on the farm.

Just how Mr. Fisher was injured is not known. Mrs. Fisher ran to the field in which he had been working when the team came to the house. She found her husband unconscious, but whether the team struck him or whether the farm equipment hit his head is not certain. Dr. C. T. Grattidge of Laurelville, who was called, had Mr. Fisher brought to Circleville in the H. E. Defenbaugh and Son ambulance. He died at 5 p. m. Tuesday.

Mr. Fisher was born in Fairfield County and spent much of his life there. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth, two brothers and two sisters.

The funeral will be Friday at 1:30 p. m., the Rev. Paul C. Scott of Adelphi officiating. Burial will be in Elmwood cemetery, Lancaster, by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

15 YEARS OF BRUTALITY END; HUSBAND SHOT DOWN

AKRON, O., Oct. 11—Climaxing what she asserted were fifteen years of brutality on the part of her husband, Mrs. Maud Hubbard, 42, mother of four children, today faced a charge of slaying him with a revolver she bought six weeks ago for self-protection.

Held without bail in Summit County jail, Mrs. Hubbard, charged with first degree murder, awaited action of the grand jury.

"I'm sorry, I loved this man," she told police, "but I was forced to do it."

The husband, H. Sherman Hubbard, 44, was superintendent of an Akron laundry and cleaning company.

Swank Flees Workhouse

The sheriff's department was notified Tuesday evening that Alva Swank, 29, of Darbyville, escaped during the afternoon from the Columbus workhouse.

Swank was fined $100 and costs and committed to the workhouse on September 26 by B. T. Hodges, justice of peace, on a charge of intoxication.

German Artillery Pointing Barrages At Maginot Fortifications

BERLIN, Oct. 11—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler is still awaiting a final, unequivocal "yes or no" answer to his peace proposals before Nazi Germany concludes that there is no alternative to unrestricted war in Europe.

Authoritative German quarters insisted today that in his radio address last night, Premier Edouard Daladier of France had not slammed the door with utmost finality on the Fuehrer's peace proposals.

PARIS, Oct. 11—Judging from German military dispositions, plus constantly increasing activity and pressure by Reich patrols on the Western Front, the zero hour of a great offensive in Europe's war was fast approaching today.

HOLLAND MENACED?

LONDON, Oct. 11—"Chancellor Hitler will launch a military attack against Holland within the next 30 days," Otto Strasser, once one of the Fuehrer's trusted aides, told the London Daily Mail in an interview published today. Strasser, now an exile from the Reich at Zurich, Switzerland, cited a high military source as authority for his statement. He also said, according to the Mail, that Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, German air chief, has an aerial plan to break the Anglo-French blockade.

pected the big push to begin yesterday, October 10, but it was delayed by the launching of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's peace offensive and his determination to await final rejection by the allies of his overtures before starting things.

Most competent military observers now have selected the period from October 15 to 25 for commencement of the offensive.

Today's communique, No. 75, declared:

"Enemy patrols involving strong effective again were repulsed during the night to the south of Saarbrücken and in the region south of Pirmasens."

The activity of German infantry in those areas was heavier than ever. These points are heavily wooded, affording excellent cover for patrols ranging in size from a dozen men to full companies of 150 troops, and they are operating continuously.

Patrol Wiped Out

The Germans are said to be under instructions to take prisoners at any cost. Consequently their activity is becoming increasingly daring, bringing one patrol, for example, up to within 20 yards of a point on the French line early this morning before it was wiped out by hand grenades.

Rain is now a daily occurrence on the front, and scenes reminiscent of World War days are staged as the patrols slither through the mud, their night activities lighted up by the explosion of hand grenades and the bursts of very bombs.

Thus far, the Germans have been almost completely unsuccessful in their quest for prisoners. The only French taken are a few pilots who have been shot down (Continued on Page Two)

Frisinger, John Frisinger and C. F. Replogle of the contracting firm, and Carl Hunter and Earl Lutz, representing the Circleville Chamber of Commerce.

Problems Discussed

Various problems concerning opening of the highway were discussed, Mr. Hunter and Mr. Lutz expressing their wish that the highway could be opened for Pumpkin Show and kept open after that event has ended. Mr. Clements and Mr. Schumaker said Tuesday evening that they were certain the request could be approved, but that they wished to view the work again before passing final judgment and in order to determine just what safety measures would be needed to guard traffic.

All motor traffic will be under control the entire length of the project, violators of speed laws to be penalized, the officials said.

Mr. Clements is acting as highway director in the absence of Director Robert Beightler who is attending the silver anniversary convention of the American Association of State Highway Officials in Richmond, Va. Twenty-five years of highway study and progress is being signaled at the convention.

Shipments of the precious metal totaled $326,088,889 for last month, substantially larger than those in August which were valued at $259,933,867.

The inflow of gold in September of this year, however, was nearly $200,000,000 less than that during September, 1938, the month of the Munich crisis.

The United Kingdom was the largest shipper of gold last month with $162,450,744 closely followed by Canada with $120,850,372.

Fall taxes are an extra nuisance. They cut so deeply into the funds we set aside for betting on football games.

TAX UTOPIA
RIDGEFIELD, Wash. — It's Utopia! — The town of Ridgefield will not ask any of its 600 citizens for one penny in taxes next year! The reason: income from state liquor board allocations, a prosperous water system and pinball machine licenses will net money enough to meet all expenses contemplated under the 1940 budget.

BIRTH RATE DECLINES
VICTORIA, B. C. — A noticeable slackening in the rate of natural increase of population in British Columbia is revealed by latest vital statistics summaries issued by the provincial government. From 4.73 per thousand persons in 1934 the birth rate dropped to 4.4 thousand in 1937, figures show.

PRUNLAX HELPS RESTORE GLOW OF HEALTH

Constipation has a natural tendency to weaken our moral outlook on life. Loss of appetite, overstuffed feeling, biliousness, gas pains, bloatedness, all tend to tear down our physical appearance and make up.

The regular use of PRUNLAX for a limited period of time will aid remarkably in correcting these afflictions. Start today, you'll be amazed what a change PRUNLAX brings about. For sale at

PUBLIC HEALTH LEAGUE BEGINS CAMPAIGN DEC. 1

Plans For Christmas Seal Sale Outlined At Confab On Chillicothe

CHAIRMEN ARE ANNOUNCED
Representatives Of 11 Ohio Counties At Conference Held Tuesday

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, West Franklin Street, executive secretary and representative director of the Pickaway County Public Health League and Mrs. George Goodchild, matron of the Children's Home and Circleville Township chairman of the league, attended a district meeting in Chillicothe Tuesday for promotion of the 1939 Seal Sale. Mrs. William Foreman, South Scioto Street, also attended the meeting.

Representatives of eleven counties were present. Mrs. Virgil Hess, secretary of the Ross County Tuberculosis Association, presided. Addresses were made by Charles G. Greig and Benjamin F. Knepper, and Raymond U. Hillman, of Columbus, education secretary of the association.

Miss Dunlap announced Wednesday that Pickaway County's goal for the drive is $1,500, the same as last year. Last year the association lacked only $78 of reaching its goal. Miss Dunlap said a county meeting will be held November 3 to make plans for the drive.

Meeting Sixth of Series

The meeting in Chillicothe was the sixth of a series of nine district meetings scheduled throughout Ohio by the state association to promote the sale. The Christmas Seal Sale will be held from December 1 to Christmas Day under the sponsorship of the National Tuberculosis Association with the cooperation of state-wide and local associations.

Officers of the Pickaway County Public Health League are J. O. Eagleton, president; George D. McDowell, first vice president; C. A. Higley, second vice president; Mrs. Harriet Henness, secretary; W. T. Uhm, treasurer, and Miss Dunlap, executive secretary. All reside in Circleville with the exception of Mr. Higley who lives in Ashville.

The executive committee includes Mrs. Ralph Head, Pickaway Township; Mrs. Harry Dunlap, Williamsport; Miss Clara Southward, Mrs. George Crites and Myron T. Johnson, all of Circleville, and Mrs. A. J. Dunkel, Circleville Township.

Township chairmen include Mrs. Cecil Noecker, Walnut; Mrs. Harry Dunlap, Deer Creek; George H. Broyles, Monroe; Mrs. Ira Carpenter, Muhlenberg; Miss Ann Lois Persinger, Perry and Derby; Mrs. George Fischer, Jackson; Mrs. Beryl Stevenson, Wayne; Mrs. Kermit Dountz, Scioto; Mrs. David Dunick, Harrison; Mrs. Goodchild, Circleville; Mrs. Paul Cromley, Ashville, and Mrs. Marvin Steely, Washington and Madison.

MODEL AIRPLANE DIVISION ESTABLISHED FOR YOUTHS

A new exhibit has been added to the fine arts department of the Pumpkin Show.

Mrs. James Moffitt, East Franklin Street, chairman of the department, announced Wednesday that an exhibit of model airplanes will be held for children under 16 years of age. Premiums for the best models will be $1, 75 cents, 50 cents and 25 cents.

ITALY'S READING

ROME — Mr. Chamberlain's "The Struggle for Peace" is prominently displayed in the window of a well-known bookshop in Rome. Beside it are a book called "Pius XII, Pope of Peace," and "The Social and Political Doctrine of Fascism" by Benito Mussolini.

Mystery and Romance on Cliftona Screen

A new kind of murder mystery, laid against a seaside beauty carnival, brings Franchot Tone and Ann "Malsie" Southern to the Cliftona screen starting tonight in "Fast and Furious." Packed with dynamite laughs and mystery situations, the picture is said to more than live up to its title!

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

retroactive. We simply cannot afford any delay on this neutrality issue."

When he finished talking a silence fell on the group for a few moments and then, sighing deeply, Roosevelt added: "This war in Europe is certainly throwing a monkey-wrench into our New Deal. I shudder to think what may happen to our reforms as a result of measures we may be forced to take to protect ourselves in this tragic world turmoil. What especially worries me is that labor may suffer if it ever becomes necessary to de-emphasize the functions of the Labor Board and Wage-Hour Administration."

HIS NAME LED ALL THE REST

When Harold Ickes was Public Works Administrator, his PWA projects bore an inexpensive copper plaque which read: Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works Franklin D. Roosevelt President Harold L. Ickes Administrator But when John Carmody, the new Federal Works Administrator, took over PWA, he immediately changed the bronze plaques even on the buildings which Ickes had built but which lacked a few weeks or days of being actually completed. The new plaques place Carmody's name first. After his name comes the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

NOTE — On plaques for any project begun under a previous President, Ickes always gave credit to that President. For instance, the Boulder Dam plaque bears the name of Herbert Hoover as well as Ray Lyman Wilbur, his Secretary of Interior, and of course Roosevelt's and Ickes' names.

DIPLOMATIC CHAFF

Now that the smoke of battle has blown away, authentic reports from Poland indicate that Field Marshal Smigly-Rydz never left Warsaw for the front. His troops struggled along as best they might without his personal leadership. . . . The diplomatic pouch also brings word that when President Moscicki and Foreign Minister Beck left Warsaw for Rumania they did so without informing the Polish people. Excuse for this secrecy was that they did not want to be bombed by the Germans. But first word Warsaw had of the departure came from German radio announcements which broadcast the whereabouts of the presidential train as it passed through each town. . . . Cordell Hull gave a diplomatic and consular letter of introduction to Dr. Joseph F. Thorming, leading Franco exponent in the United States, when Thorming went to Spain to interview General Franco.

They are not saying anything about it, but worried Administration chiefs are beginning to wonder whether the final show-down won't find the House, not the Senate, deciding the fate of neutrality.

When the battle opened, leaders were confident that if they could win the Senate, the House would be a push-over. But reports in recent days indicate a disquieting undercurrent situation there. Inside tips have come from a number of state delegations that members whose votes were considered certain are far from in the bag. One reported instance is the five Massachusetts Democrats, normally Administration supporters but now secretly split 4-to-1 against embargo repeal.

Several of the Liberal Bloc are either completely off the reservation or else on the fence. It is not generally realized that the House, unlike the Senate, voted on the embargo at the last session and turned down repeal by 41 votes. It is true that due to inefficient floor leadership some 50 Democrats were absent—many of them drinking beer and eating sandwiches in the House restaurant while others gossiped with visiting friends in the galleries.

Even so, turning over 41 votes on as hot an issue as the embargo is no easy job.

Administration leaders have just awakened to the fact that while they have been concentrating all their efforts in the Senate, Coughlinites, the Bund, pacifist and other pro-embargo forces have been putting tremendous pressure on Representatives. Illustrative was the action of Father Francis E. Caffery of the Old Mission at San Juan Bautista, Calif., calling on his parishioners to deluge Representative John Anderson with letters demanding he oppose embargo repeal.

There is every indication that

Little English Girl Writes to Pen Friend of Conditions in Land; Balloons Watched

An interesting letter giving the views of a 14-year-old English girl on the conditions in England was received from a pen friend this week by Miss Virginia McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. McDowell, South Court Street.

Miss McDowell has been corresponding with Miss Nora McDowd, 12 Naseby Walk, St. George, Bristol.

Following is the letter received by Miss McDowell from her English friend:

"Dear Virginia: Thanks very much for your letter. I was very pleased to hear from you.

"No, I have not been evacuated yet, and somehow I don't think that they will take the children away from Bristol as it is a neutral zone and we are hoping that we are a little too far away for the bombing planes.

No Lights Permitted

"We are all blacked out and no lights whatever must be showing. Motor cars run on covered side lights only and it is no pleasure at all to go out, especially in a car with only the dash light on in the car.

"Cinemas have just reopened in our area, but must be closed by 10 o'clock at night. From one of our bedroom windows one can see 15 balloons in the sky forming a barrage. Another 55 have yet to go up.

"Our schools are not yet opened and I am not at all sure when they will be. The whole idea of keeping us away is to stop congestion of large numbers of people.

"We are always to carry out gas masks about with us, also we all have an air raid shelter out on our gardens. They should be sunk three feet in the ground and covered with sand bags or mounds.

Some people make a rocky on top of their shelter.

"My dad said that if you could save enough money (as I am doing now) to come to England, he and I would fetch you by car to our house from which ever dock you landed at. I would so much like you to come down for a month or two to see England. Dad said that as soon as I saved a pound he would pay the rest of the money for me to come and visit you, but of course that is only if you would like me to. As soon as you and I get the money we will let each other have further details."

"Nora."

LANCASTER FAIR OPENS; MANY TO ATTEND EVENT

Many Pickaway County folk went to Lancaster Wednesday to attend the annual Fairfield County Fair. The fair opened Tuesday night.

The fair promises to be the best in many years if weather conditions are favorable. Housing facilities on the fairgrounds have been strained to the bursting point. There is an overflow of livestock entries, especially cattle. Additional tents had to be erected to take care of the entries. All available space for concessions has been sold.

The junior horse pulling contest was the feature of the Wednesday afternoon program. Horse racing starts Thursday afternoon.

Many concessionaires from the Fairfield County Fair attend the annual Pumpkin Show in Circleville, opening next Wednesday.

RED CROSS ORGANIZATION CONFERENCE IS DELAYED

The meeting of officers of the Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross, scheduled for Tuesday afternoon was postponed until Wednesday, October 18, at 4 p. m. The meeting will be brief due to the opening of the annual Pumpkin Show on that date. Carl C. Leist, chapter chairman, announced. Earl A. Smith is roll call chairman.

PUBLIC HEALTH LEAGUE BEGINS CAMPAIGN DEC. 1

Plans For Christmas Seal Sale Outlined At Confab On Chillicothe

CHAIRMAN ARE ANNOUNCED

Representatives Of 11 Ohio Counties At Conference Held Tuesday

Miss Elizabeth Dunlap, West Franklin Street, executive secretary and representative director of the Pickaway County Public Health League and Mrs. George Goodchild, matron of the Children's Home and Circleville Township chairman of the league, attended a district meeting is Chillicothe Tuesday for promotion of the 1939 Seal Sale. Mrs. William Foreman, South Scioto Street, also attended the meeting.

Representatives of eleven counties were present. Mrs. Virgil Hess, secretary of the Ross County Tuberculosis Association, presided. Addresses were made by Charles G. Greig and Benjamin F. Knepper, and Raymond U. Hillman, of Columbus, education secretary of the association.

Miss Dunlap announced Wednesday that Pickaway County's goal for the drive is $1,500, the same as last year. Last year the association lacked only $78 of reaching its goal. Miss Dunlap said a county meeting will be held November 3 to make plans for the drive.

Meeting Sixth of Series
The meeting in Chillicothe was the sixth of a series of nine district meetings scheduled throughout Ohio by the state association to promote the sale. The Christmas Seal Sale will be held from December 1 to Christmas Day under the sponsorship of the National Tuberculosis Association with the cooperation of state-wide and local associations.

Officers of the Pickaway County Public Health League are J. O. Eagleson, president; George D. McDowell, first vice president; C. A. Higley, second vice president; Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, secretary; W. T. Ulm, treasurer, and Miss Dunlap, executive secretary. All reside in Circleville with the exception of Mr. Higley who lives in Ashville.

The executive committee includes Mrs. Ralph Head, Pickaway Township; Mrs. Harry Dunlap, Williamsport; Miss Clara Southward, Mrs. George Crites and Myron T. Johnson, all of Circleville, and Mrs. A. J. Dunkel, Circleville Township.

Township chairmen include Mrs. Cecil Noecker, Walnut; Mrs. Harry Dunlap, Deer Creek; George H. Broyles, Monroe; Mrs. Ira Carpenter, Muhlenberg; Miss Ann Lois Persinger, Perry and Derby; Mrs. George Fischer, Jackson; Mrs. Beryl Stevenson, Wayne; Mrs. Kermit Dountz, Scioto; Mrs. David Dunick, Harrison; Mrs. Goodchild, Circleville; Mrs. Paul Cromley, Ashville, and Mrs. Marvin Steely, Washington and Madison.

MODEL AIRPLANE DIVISION ESTABLISHED FOR YOUTHS

A new exhibit has been added to the fine arts department of the Pumpkin Show. Mrs. James Moffitt, East Franklin Street, chairman of the department, announced Wednesday that an exhibit of model airplanes will be held for children under 16 years of age. Premiums for the best models will be $1, 75 cents, 50 cents and 25 cents.

retroactive. We simply cannot afford any delay on this neutrality issue."

When he finished talking a silence fell on the group for a few moments and then, sighing deeply, Roosevelt added:

"This war in Europe is certainly throwing a monkey-wrench into our New Deal. I shudder to think what may happen to our reforms as a result of measures we may be forced to take to protect ourselves in this tragic world turmoil. What especially worries me is that labor may suffer if it ever becomes necessary to de-emphasize the functions of the Labor Board and Wage-Hour Administration."

HIS NAME LED ALL THE REST
When Harold Ickes was Public Works Administrator, his PWA projects bore an inexpensive copper plaque which read:

Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works
Franklin D. Roosevelt
President
Harold L. Ickes
Administrator

But when John Carmody, the new Federal Works Administrator, took over PWA, he immediately changed the bronze plaques even on the buildings which Ickes had built but which lacked a few weeks or days of being actually completed. The new plaques place Carmody's name first. After his name comes the name of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

NOTE — On plaques for any project begun under a previous President, Ickes always gave credit to that President. For instance, the Boulder Dam plaque bears the name of Herbert Hoover as well as Ray Lyman Wilbur, his Secretary of Interior, and of course Roosevelt's and Ickes' names.

DIPLOMATIC CHAFF

Now that the smoke of battle has blown away, authentic reports from Poland indicate that Field Marshal Smigly-Rydz never left Warsaw for the front. His troops struggled along as best they might without his personal leadership. . . . The diplomatic pouch also brings word that when President Moscicki and Foreign Minister Beck left Warsaw for Rumania they did so without informing the Polish people. Excuse for this secrecy was that they did not want to be bombed by the Germans. But

There is every indication that

Little English Girl Writes to Pen Friend of Conditions in Land; Balloons Watched

An interesting letter giving the views of a 14-year-old English girl on the conditions in England was received from a pen friend this week by Miss Virginia McDowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. McDowell, South Court Street.

Miss McDowell has been corresponding with Miss Nora McDowell, 12 Naseby Walk, St. George, Bristol.

Following is the letter received by Miss McDowell from her English friend:

"Dear Virginia: Thanks very much for your letter, I was very pleased to hear from you."

"No, I have not been evacuated yet, and somehow I don't think that they will take the children away from Bristol as it is a neutral zone and we are hoping that we are a little too far away for the bombing planes."

No Lights Permitted

"We are all blacked out and no lights whatever must be showing. Motor cars run on covered side lights only and it is no pleasure at all to go out, especially in a car with only the dash light on in the car."

"Cinemas have just reopened in our area, but must be closed by 10 o'clock at night. From one of our bedroom windows one can see 15 balloons in the sky forming a barrage. Another 55 have yet to go up."

"Our schools are not yet opened and I am not at all sure when they will be. The whole idea of keeping

THREE CO-EDS PLEDGED TO O. S. U. SORORITIES

Three Ohio State co-eds from Circleville, Ashville and Kingston have been pledged during the last week to sororities at the state university. They are Ruth Robinson of Circleville and Roberta Cromley of Ashville to Delta Gamma, and Jessie Mowery of Kingston to Alpha Xi Delta. Three hundred and forty girls have been pledged so far this year at the university.

This organized pressure is having its effect. Congressmen always are more susceptible to outside heat. They not only come up for election every two years but their constituencies are much smaller than those of Senators.

LANCASTER FAIR OPENS; MANY TO ATTEND EVENT

Many Pickaway County folk went to Lancaster Wednesday to attend the annual Fairfield County Fair. The fair opened Tuesday night.

The fair promises to be the best in many years if weather conditions are favorable. Housing facilities on the fairgrounds have been strained to the bursting point. There is an overflow of livestock entries, especially cattle. Additional tents had to be erected to take care of the entries. All available space for concessions has been sold.

The junior horse pulling contest was the feature of the Wednesday afternoon program. Horse racing starts Thursday afternoon.

Many concessionaires from the Fairfield County Fair attend the annual Pumpkin Show in Circleville, opening next Wednesday.

RED CROSS ORGANIZATION CONFERENCE IS DELAYED

The meeting of officers of the Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross, scheduled for Tuesday afternoon was postponed until Wednesday, October 18, at 4 p. m. The meeting will be brief due to the opening of the annual Pumpkin Show on that date. Carl C. Leist, chapter chairman, announced. Earl A. Smith is roll call chairman.

LOST TERRITORY SOUGHT

Troops To Be Sent Through Neutral Land, According To, Claims

By H. R. Knickerbocker
PARIS, Oct. 11—Adolf Hitler has abandoned his peace offensive.
He has ordered immediate preparations to reconquer "at any price" the terrain in front of the Siegfried line now occupied by French troops.

Thereby he intends to "retrieve Germany's honor," which is injured by the presence of French troops on German soil. But he also wishes to pin as many French as possible to positions along the Maginot line while his principal attack goes around the wings through Holland,
Belgium and Switzerland.

This information comes from an anti-Nazi intelligence service operating through a neutral country.
This service, though obviously biased, has distinguished itself in the past by the accuracy and speed of its information.

Report Quoted
It gives its report in the following form:

"Hitler issued this general directive to the army dated October 9:
"Since the democracies have shown themselves unyielding, and since the honor of the German army has been impugned through occupation of part of the Saar and the Palatinate, I hereby order:

"1—Reconstitution of planned advance posts before the Siegfried line at any price. Commanders will keep me constantly informed of the progress of their preparations for attack.

"2—The attack shall be accomplished through four armies from the direction of Saarburg, Saarbrücken, Pirmasens and Landau, with the goal the advanced terrain in front of the Siegfried line.

"3—At the same time, preparations shall be expected to accomplish a strong attack over Holland and Switzerland and to attack over the Rhine opposite Freiburg. These preparations shall be perfected by the time the advanced terrain in front of the Siegfried line has been reoccupied."

Professional observers take this information with greatest seriousness. They point out among other things that if Hitler did wish to attack across the Rhine, it would logically be opposite Freiburg, where the river is dominated by the massive heights of Kaiserstuhl.

Jimmy Walker, the man who gagbuster on "Stop Me If You've Heard This One," starring Milton

Berle when the second show in the new series is broadcast, Saturday,
Oct. 14, at 8:30 p. m. over the NBC-Red network. With Berle as emcee of the program, Walker will sit with regular gagbusters, Harry Hershfield and Jay C. Flippen while the gags fall where they may. Emery Deutsch's orchestra will be the guest band on the show.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goben, the oldest living married couple, who were scheduled to be on "We, the People" this week failed to show up. The reason is that the pair, 93 years old each and married for 78 years, left their home in Lucas,
Iowa, but found the trip too tiring and had to turn back.

¶This brief description of the 1940 Cadillacs and LaSalle merely suggests the tremendous progress these superb cars represent. It leaves out entirely any discussion of the new ride, the new handling ease, and of the mighty Cadillac V-8 engines which power them all. It does so deliberately, because only a look and a ride can demonstrate the true greatness of these cars.

MOVING POPULATIONS
HITLER and Stalin are shifting minority populations on a big scale, and in many places, in central and southeastern Europe. This would be done to suit their purpose of simplification and unity, bringing people together by racial groups and correcting the loose pattern in which fragments of races and cultures have scattered themselves about through centuries.
This may seem simple and logical to the dictators, but how about the people it affects? Some, no doubt, would like to live with others of their own race. But to jerk people up by hundreds of thousands or even millions, remove them bodily from their homes and set them down elsewhere, for no matter what purpose, is a big undertaking and means a tremendous uprooting.
Most of such cases will seem cruel and arbitrary. Many of them will certainly involve confiscation of the homes of the transplanted people. Only dictators, drunk with their racial and ideological dogmas, would do such things.
The unnaturalness of it is evident when anyone considers how all the different races live mixed up together here in America, without enmity or difficulty, and need no transplanting. Freedom, the great political solvent, takes care of that.

PIE DISCRIMINATION
THERE is no argument about the position of apple pie as the favorite food and dessert of this country. People never dispute about it, they just eat as often as they have the opportunity.
A pie enthusiast now thinks it would be fun to name Pie No. 2. He believes there might be considerable honest difference about that. As candidates for second position in the pie honor roll he lists mince, pumpkin, lemon, squash, cherry or blueberry, and adds the rash statement that they are "the only orthodox pies." There are other dishes baked in shallow pans with one or two crusts and a filling, known as pies, and considered edible by some people, but which this connoisseur labels as of "doubtful respectability."
Among these he names peach, raisin, pineapple, cream, mock cherry, apricot, prune and chocolate pies. Entirely 'outside the pale' are elderberry, vinegar, potato, grape and "such horrors."
There ought to be material enough for a merry war in such statements, not to mention ammunition in the pies themselves.

World At A Glance —By— Charles F. Stewart
FROM THE very beginning of the current extra session of congress it's been evident that advocates of modification of the Nye neutrality law had this law's 100 percent stand-patters outnumbered. They haven't had the 100 percenters outvoted, though. That the modificationists ultimately would win has been the best betting all along. But they're not doing it spectacularly. The 100 percent crowd has been making the welkin ring. The modificationists simply have argued soberly, depending on their obvious numerical superiority — upon victory to the accompaniment of no particular outbursts of eloquence.
Ultra-isolationists, like Senators Borah, Nye, Clark and Johnson of California, no doubt realized from the first that they'd be beaten in the long run, but they're sparkling talkers. They've been making a fight to the bitter end, such as Warsaw's — admirable regardless of its windup.
The modificationists, led by Senator Pittman, chairman of the upper house's foreign affairs committee, have been moderate reasoners, not impassioned speech makers. Being sure that they were in a majority, they've been pretty clam about it, relying on their preponderant voting strength without shooting off many fireworks.
This may have been very rational. The fact remains that a highly vocal modificationist had a good chance to make himself so con-

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

ROOSEVELT EXPRESSES FEAR
WASHINGTON — The House Liberal Bloc had no success in persuading Roosevelt to back their anti-profiteering rider to the neutrality bill. But they did come away from the White House with one thing—an inside glimpse of a great fear that is haunting the President. It is the fear that his New Deal reforms will be nullified by war.
Roosevelt listened quietly to the arguments of the liberals that anti-profiteering legislation was needed immediately. But when they finished, he at once made it clear that he did not intend to permit anything to interfere with the earliest possible repeal of the arms embargo. The nation was faced with an "extreme emergency," he declared, and would continue to be in danger until the neutrality bill was passed.
"I agree with everything you say about the evils of profiteering and the desirability of taking prompt action to curb them," Roosevelt in effect told the Congressmen. "But there are other matters far more urgent. I can tell you gentlemen that there is a desperate need to get the neutrality bill through Congress at the earliest possible moment."
"Until we have an airtight neutrality law on the books, we will have our guard down and be open to all kinds of incidents involving our country in the European conflict. This is a dangerous position to be in, and I can't stress too strongly the word dangerous."

The liberals were impressed by this statement, but they still clung to their demand. "I have no doubt that what you say is true, Mr. President," persisted Representative John Coffee, Washington New Dealer, "but we have a bill all ready and..."
"John, there are a lot more angles to this profiteering problem than you perhaps realize," Roosevelt broke in. "We have been studying it and it's not so simple as you think. I suggest that you folks get together with various authorities in the Government who have been working on the matter before you decide definitely on a bill."
"In other words," he added with a smile, "get up your homework and then come back and see me in January."
GOODBYE, NEW DEAL
"But, Mr. President," demurred Representative Lee Geyer of California, "I don't think this matter can wait that long. I agree with you that the embargo should be repealed with all possible haste. But profiteering is a mighty serious problem, and a lot of harm can be done to American consumers between now and January."
"That may be true," replied Roosevelt, "but let's get the biggest problem out of the way first. You must remember you can always make an excess profits tax (Continued on Page Four)" spicuous as to figure among future presidential possibilities. Nobody has seized the opportunity. The unqualified isolationists have done the star debating, but their creditable performance on the legislative floor won't profit 'em materially, because they're doomed to lose, in the last analysis, anyway.

WHICH IS WHICH?
How do the out-and-out isolationists and the modificationists differ?
It seems like a foolish question to ask, considering how often it already has been asked and answered. Yet I've seen folks who don't appear to know precisely what the correct definitions are.
The Nye law provides essentially that we can't sell war stuff to any belligerent nation. The modificationists contend that we should sell to any country that can send its own ships here and take its explosives away in these same ships, after previously having paid for them.
The alleged hitch in the Nye law is that Britain and France can do this, since they have plenty of vessels to come and get their American war junk, if our law permits; whereas Germany, lacking the necessary craft to handle its own transportation, can't do its Teutonic "cash and carry" in any case. The modificationists argue that, indirectly, this helps Hitler, because it shuts the Anglo-French alliance off from a source of supplies it otherwise would draw on. So, it isn't true American neutral-

What Medical Science Has Done To Aid Deaf
BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
DEAFNESS is relative. Since the introduction of the audiometer it has been possible to measure the amount of deafness and record it quite accurately. An ear-piece is clamped over the ear, the other ear is stopped and sounds of different loudness are produced, beginning with the faintest sound heard by the normal ear. The person being tested makes a sign at the first sound heard. The other ear is tested in the same way.
The degrees of sound are called decibels. Loss of nine decibels is considered the point at which hearing handicap occurs. In other words, it is the lowest degree of deafness. Tests of school children show that about six per cent have a loss of nine decibels or more. It is fair to assume that the adult population contains at least as large a number of relatively deaf persons.
In childhood the causes of deafness are, for the most part, due to infection—infection of the ear following infectious diseases, such as scarlet fever and measles, or from infected adenoids and tonsils, or chronic infection of the nose. These cases present fairly hopeful prospects, if not for the relief of the deafness, at least for prevention of further impairment. If nothing else can be done, at least these children can be taught lip reading and other aids, and can be segregated in competition with their more favored companions.
The deafness which comes on in adult life is a different story. It is slowly progressive, beginning with head noises and ringings that are often more annoying than the deafness itself. The cause is otosclerosis, a replacement of new spongy bone around the internal ear which fixes the small bones of the middle ear so that the vibration and the conduction of sound are impossible. It would be unfair, in the present state of medical knowledge, to hold out much hope for cure or even for arresting the progress of the deafness in these cases.

I have long thought that the principal treatment of this type of deafness is psychological rather than medical. The author of a recent textbook says, I think wisely: "The patient must be encouraged to learn lip reading as soon as the diagnosis has been made; while there is still useful hearing, it is easy to learn and, when expertly done, replaces the lost hearing in all situations when the lips of the speaker can be seen by the patient. For other purposes a hearing aid of the electric type, with a bone conduction receiver, is most helpful."
Modern surgery is much less efficient here than in the organs of sight. Nature has put the eye on the surface of the body, but it has locked away hearing in the fastnesses of a grotto of solid bone. But experimental surgical researchers hold out the hope that some practical method may soon be perfected.
Advice of Essayist
I have written of some of the trials of such persons. There may be added here the advice of the charming essayist, E. S. Martin: "A deaf man who really wants to be good has it in his favor that there are a number of sinful things he cannot do to advantage. He cannot play poker, he cannot flirt, he has even a greater incentive to be temperate than most men, for carousals are dull sport to a deaf man. He had better be good. He may be virtuous and still not be happy—whatever the copybooks declare—but certainly, being deaf, he has a great deal better chance of being happy by sticking to virtue than by trying to be successfully wicked."

Shadow Over Hill House
By ELLIOTT FILLION
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION
SYNOPSIS
Mrs. Peake, proprietor of Hill House, New England summer resort, is found murdered by the "spite fence" erected near her property by her estranged sister, Miss Ivy Newcomb. Previous to the murder the guests had been concerned about the poisoning of one of their number, Mrs. Ruthford, who recovers; strange sounds of a prowler on the property, and the ransacking of one of the rooms. Those at Hill House besides Dr. Neal and Josie Peake, children of the dead woman, are Sally Gordon, spending her first vacation there; her close friends, Rhoda and her fiancé Duncan; Dr. Paul and Pauline Ruthford, children of Mrs. Ruthford; Coral Easton, Bruce Orton and Joseph Barry. Josie is friendly with Alan Murray who lives at Miss Ivy's, and that infuriates her brother, Neal. He likes Coral Easton, for whom Josie has no use.
CHAPTER SEVENTEEN
THE SOUND of those motor cars was what I had been waiting for. I went to the door and threw it open as racing figures loomed out of the fog. Some were in uniform, some not. One halted the others with a gesture and, alone, came to the door. His face was stern, his voice abrupt:
"Chief of Police Forrest. You sent for me?"
"Yes, this way, please." I could be as curt as this big man in uniform. Yet under his crispness I sensed a trace of gentleness.
Without stopping to get my sweater, which I had put to dry before the fire, I led the way across the lawn, around the bridal wreath bush at the beginning of the shrubbery and down the walk beside the spite fence. Against me the fog blew damper and chillier than before. Involuntarily I shivered.
The chief stopped short. "You're cold. You'd better go back to the house. We'll find it—if this is the way."
"No." My teeth were chattering, but I started on. "I've something to say."
"Right! Say it." The big figure by my side was going through a surprising series of contortions. The next thing I knew, his raincoat was wrapped around me.
"It will, at least, keep you from getting any wetter. I'll send one of my men back to the house with you and he can bring it back." A big hand grasped my elbow, steadied my wavering footsteps. "You were going to say—"
"Dr. Paul and I found her." I gulped loudly. I couldn't help it.
"I'm sorry." The chief's voice was surprisingly soft and gentle. "This is never a pleasant experience."
"When you've finished down here, may I speak with you? I'm new here—I only came yesterday—but I know a few things. I think I can help."
My words tumbled out as jerkily as the motions of a marionette. He may think me crazy, ran my thoughts, but I don't care. I was willing to do anything, go through anything, to help Josie and Neal.
His strong fingers pressed my arm understandingly. "You're just the one I'll want to see. What is your name?"
"Sally Gordon. I called your office." I stopped short. I could see a ray of light bobbing ahead. "The light is where—she is. I won't go any further unless you wish—"
"You've done finely, Miss Gordon. I'll be asking for you later. Haines, take Miss Gordon back to the house and bring back my slicker."
I stepped to one side and waited while one, two, four, six men filed by me. As the fourth went by he seemed to me to be familiar, someone I had seen before. But I couldn't place him, and when the seventh and last stepped out of line to my side I forgot the other.
As gently as the chief had done, Haines took my arm and guided my stumbling steps. I was unspcakably weary. Hill House seemed a mile away. Don't anyone ever try to tell me that the police are heartless. No one could have been treated nicer than I was that night.
At the door I handed the chief's slicker back to Haines and went inside. The room was empty; it struck a chill to my jittery nerves. But I couldn't give up now. Josie had said she would leave everything in my hands. What should I do?
I started for the kitchen, switching on each light as I went, and leaving them burning. No dark corners for me tonight! I went to the foot of the stairs and called to Chloe. She heard me at once and came down.
"Yes, Miss Gordon. What can I do for you?" She was calmly gentle and smiling as when I first saw her. One glance at her face, unless she was a better actress than I thought, revealed her ignorance of what had happened.
"When did you come home?" I asked. Josie had casually mentioned that it was Chloe's night out.
She looked at me as though wondering by what authority I asked the question. "I just this minute got in," she said. "Why?" As I did not answer, she asked again: "Why? Is something wrong?"
I stepped forward and laid my hand on her shoulder. "Yes, Chloe, I said slowly. "Something is terribly wrong. Mrs. Peake is—"
"Dead! Miss Peake dead! Oh, no, Miss, I guess you're just' funnin', ain't you?" Then, as I did not speak, she stepped backward and sat down hard on the nearest chair.
"Yo' really mean it," she said dully. "Miss Peake dead! What happened, Miss Gordon? She was all right when I went out jus' before nine. I saw her outside talkin' to Miss Easton."
"She was—was—somebody—" I couldn't say the word.
She was up and at me like a human cyclone. Fury blazed in her eyes. Her grip on my arm was like an iron band. She thrust her brown face into mine.
"Yo' mean—" She hissed each word in a vindictive way that made my flesh crawl. "You mean somebody KILLED her?"
I nodded. It was no use for me to try to speak. My throat had closed up.
"I've worked here for Miss Peake for six years. She was the finest white woman I ever knew. I'll do anything to help find who done it." She went off into a long tirade in Portuguese which I couldn't understand.

MOVING POPULATIONS

HITLER and Stalin are shifting minority populations on a big scale, and in many places, in central and southeastern Europe. This would be done to suit their purpose of simplification and unity, bringing people together by racial groups and correcting the loose pattern in which fragments of races and cultures have scattered themselves about through centuries.

This may seem simple and logical to the dictators, but how about the people it affects? Some, no doubt, would like to live with others of their own race. But to jerk people up by hundreds of thousands or even millions, remove them bodily from their homes and set them down elsewhere, for no matter what purpose, is a big undertaking and means a tremendous uprooting.

Most of such cases will seem cruel and arbitrary. Many of them will certainly involve confiscation of the homes of the transplanted people. Only dictators, drunk with their racial and ideological dogmas, would do such things.

The unnaturalness of it is evident when anyone considers how all the different races live mixed up together here in America, without enmity or difficulty, and need no transplanting. Freedom, the great political solvent, takes care of that.

PIE DISCRIMINATION

THERE is no argument about the position of apple pie as the favorite food and dessert of this country. People never dispute about it, they just eat as often as they have the opportunity.

A pie enthusiast now thinks it would be fun to name Pie No. 2. He believes there might be considerable honest difference about that. As candidates for second position in the pie honor roll he lists mince, pumpkin, lemon, squash, cherry or blueberry, and adds the rash statement that they are "the only orthodox pies." There are other dishes baked in shallow pans with one or two crusts and a filling, known as pies, and considered edible by some people, but which this connoisseur labels as "doubtful respectability."

Among these he names peach, raisin, pineapple, cream, mack cherry, apricot, prune and chocolate pies. Entirely 'outside the pale' are elderberry, vinegar, potato, grape and "such horrors."

There ought to be material enough for a merry war in such statements, not to mention ammunition in the pies themselves.

World At A Glance

FROM THE very beginning of the current extra session of congress it's been evident that advocates of modification of the Nye neutrality law had this law's 100 percent stand-patters outnumbered. They haven't had the 100 percent outvoted, though. That the modificationists ultimately would win has been the best bet along. But they're not doing it spectacularly. The 100 percent crowd has been making the welkin ring. The modificationists simply have argued soberly, depending on their obvious numerical superiority—upon victory to the accompaniment of no particular outbursts of eloquence.

Ultra-isolationists, like Senators Borah, Nye, Clark and Johnson of California, no doubt realized from the first that they'd be beaten in the long run, but they're sparkling talkers. They've been making a fight to the bitter end, such as Warsaw's—admirable regardless of its windup.

The modificationists, led by Senator Pittman, chairman of the upper house's foreign affairs committee, have been moderate reasoners, not impassioned speech makers. Being sure that they were in a majority, they've been pretty clamorous about it, relying on their preponderant voting strength without shooting off many fireworks.

This may have been very rational. The fact remains that a highly vocal modificationist had a good chance to make himself so con-

What Medical Science Has Done To Aid Deaf

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DEAFNESS is relative. Since the introduction of the audiometer it has been possible to measure the amount of deafness and record it quite accurately. An ear-piece is clamped over the ear, the other ear is stopped and sounds of different loudness are produced, beginning with the faintest sound heard by the normal ear. The person being tested makes a sign at the first sound heard. The other ear is tested in the same way.

The degrees of sound are called decibels. Loss of nine decibels is considered the point at which hearing handicap occurs. In other words, it is the lowest degree of

These cases present fairly hopeful prospects, if not for the relief of the deafness, at least for prevention of further impairment. If nothing else can be done, at least these children can be taught lip reading and other aids, and can be segregated in school so that they are not in competition with their more favored companions.

The deafness which comes on in adult life is a different story. It is slowly progressive, beginning with head noises and ringings that are often more annoying than the deafness itself. The cause is otosclerosis, a replacement of new spongy bone around the internal ear which fixes the small bones of the middle ear so that the vibration and the conduction of sound are impossible. It would be unfair, in the present state of medical knowledge, to hold out much hope for cure or even for arresting the progress of the deafness in these cases.

I have long thought that the principal treatment of this type of deafness is psychological rather than medical. The author of a recent textbook says, I think wisely: "The patient must be encouraged to learn lip reading as soon as the diagnosis has been made; while there is still useful hearing, it is easy to learn and, when expertly done, replaces the lost hearing in all situations when the lips of the speaker can be seen by the patient. For other purposes a hearing aid of the electric type, with a bone conduction receiver, is most helpful."

Modern surgery is much less efficient here than in the organs of sight. Nature has put the eye on the surface of the body, but it has locked away hearing in the fastnesses of a grotto of solid bone. But experimental surgical researchers hold out the hope that some practical method may soon be perfected.

"Sally Gordon. I called your office," I stopped short. I could see a ray of light bobbing ahead. "The light is where—she is. I won't go any further unless you wish—"

"You've done finely, Miss Gordon. I'll be asking for you later. Haines, take Miss Gordon back to the house and bring back my slicker."

I stepped to one side and waited while one, two, four, six men filed by me. As the fourth went by he seemed to me to be familiar, someone I had seen before. But I couldn't place him, and when the seventh and last stepped out of line to my side I forgot the other.

As gently as the chief had done, Haines took my arm and guided my stumbling steps. I was unspeakably weary. Hill House seemed a mile away. Don't anyone ever try to tell me that the police are heartless. No one could have been treated nicer than I was that night.

At the door I handed the chief's slicker back to Haines and went inside. The room was empty; it struck a chill to my jittery nerves. But I couldn't give up now. Josie had said she would leave everything in my hands. What should I do?

I started for the kitchen, switching on each light as I went, and leaving them burning. No dark corners for me tonight! I went to the foot of the stairs and called to Chloe. She heard me at once and came down.

"Yes, Miss Gordon. What can I do for you?" She was calmly gentle and smiling as when I first saw her. One glance at her face, unless she was a better actress than I thought, revealed her ignorance of what had happened.

"When did you come home?" I asked. Josie had casually mentioned that it was Chloe's night out.

She looked at me as though wondering by what authority I asked the question. "I just this minute got in," she said. "Why?" As I did not answer, she asked again: "Why? Is something wrong?"

I stepped forward and laid my hand on her shoulder. "Yes, Chloe," I said slowly. "Something is terribly wrong. Mrs. Peake is—"

"Dead?" Miss Peake dead! Oh, no, Miss, I guess you're just'funning, ain't you?" Then, as I did not speak, she stepped backward and sat down hard on the nearest chair.

"You really mean it," she said dully. "Miss Peake dead! What happened, Miss Gordon? She was all right when I went out just before I saw her outside talkin' to Miss Easton."

"She was—was somebody—I couldn't say the word."

She was up and at me like a human cyclone. Fury blazed in her eyes. Her grip on my arm was like an iron band. She thrust her brown face into mine.

"You mean—" She hissed each word in a vindictive way that made my flesh crawl. "You mean somebody KILLED her?"

I nodded. It was no use for me to try to speak. My throat had closed up.

"I've worked here for Miss Peake for six years. She was the finest white woman I ever knew. I'll do anything to help find who done it."

She went off into a long tirade in Portuguese which I couldn't understand.

"Chloe," I said gently when her outpouring stopped. "I hate to trouble you at this hour, but Miss Josie has asked me to take the helm for a while. Do you think you can make some coffee and maybe some sandwiches. Miss Josie should have something hot to drink and—there will be a lot of others here shortly—I couldn't go on. I just buried my face in my hands and struggled to regain my composure."

A soft hand patted my shoulder. "Don't you take on now, Miss Gordon. I speak you're the only one that pore little girl can depend on. I'll look after things here. I'm Portuguese" (with a proud lift of her head) "and we never let our white folks down."

The hand was withdrawn and I heard the rattle of dishes. I raised my head and looked. Chloe, the silent tears dripping down her cheeks, was going methodically about her work. I would take a lesson from her and do the same.

As I went out the door, her soft voice called after me: "Miss Gordon, I'd 'preciate fo' you' to leave the lights on."

And I was shamed by that exhibition of quiet courage.

Back to the lounge I went. It was still deserted. I poked up the fire, threw on a couple of logs and sat down to wait. But sitting quietly was not for me. I paced restlessly back and forth across the room until the door swung open and a perfect mob poured into the room.

Neal, deathly white and shaking, was supported by Dr. Paul and Chief Forrest. After them came a tall, fine-looking man in plain clothes, three police officers in olive brown uniforms, Coral Easton, Joseph Barry, Bruce Orton and Duncan Abbott.

Coral was sniffing ostentatiously into her handkerchief. She threw herself onto a davenport and promptly broke into a tumult of tears. Joseph Barry hung over her with foot pattings and a continuous murmur of words.

"When Josie was killed," were Neal's first words to me.

"In her room. Rhoda is with her." "Is she—all right?" His eyes pleaded for reassurance.

"Standing up to it like a Spartan," I replied warmly.

"She would if it killed her." A prideful expression passed fleetingly across his face before he sank into a chair and dropped his head in his hands.

As he turned from me, Coral moved over as though inviting him to take a seat at her side. When he sat down in a chair at some distance from the davenport, she glared angrily at him around her bunched handkerchief and moved back again close to Barry.

Huh! Putting on an act, I thought disgustedly, as I turned to the chief who was speaking.

"Do you think she will be able to talk with us here?" he inquired.

"If you want her, I think she will come if she has to be carried," I answered grimly.

Chief Forrest nodded. A smile of appreciation wreathed his lips. "I admire grit," he said quietly, as he stepped to my side. He laid his hand on my arm and drew me away from the others.

If the garden chrysanthemums have not flowered before frost threatens to destroy them, they may be cut and kept inside in water and buds will develop nicely.

Advantage should be taken now of the warm soil to get all the bulbs planted, except the tulips.

REDS ARRANGING TO PAY BACK MONEY FOR DUCATS

CINCINNATI, Oct. 11—Arrangements have been made by The Cincinnati Baseball Club Company for refunding money paid for tickets for the unplayed fifth game of the World Series. These tickets may be redeemed at The Central Trust Company and its branches and The Fifth Third Union Trust Company and its branches.

Out of town fans may redeem their tickets by writing to the World Series Ticket Offices, Box 1078, Cincinnati, Ohio. This office is being kept open until all tickets for the fifth game are redeemed. Checks will be mailed all people sending in tickets, providing that the owner assumes full responsibility for the safe delivery of his tickets at that office. Fans are asked to be certain their full name and correct address is printed on a letter accompanying the tickets. The total price (including tax) will be refunded. In all, $158,000.00 will be refunded.

Buckeye Team To See De Correvont Perform

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11—The fabulous young Mr. William John De Correvont comes to grips with Western Conference football on Saturday in Ohio Stadium when Ohio State and Northwestern meet in the season's first conference encounter for each.

Bill, whose almost legendary gridiron feats at Austin High School in Chicago became a national by-word in 1937, is trying for the left halfback position at Northwestern. And according to reports emanating from the Purple's practice sessions, "trying" is quite the right word for the sophomore ace has three experienced lettermen to contend with besides Don Kruger, another young sophomore of equal abilities.

De Correvont was the center of the greatest publicity frenzy ever accorded a high school football player when he graduated from Austin high school. The lad was caught up in a magic net of millions of words and the question of where he would attend college took on the aspect of a national man hunt. For over a year now he has been under the influence of Coach Lynn Waldorf at Northwestern. Waldorf is one of the best liked coaches in the business. No one has been able to sum up De Correvont's position any better than the young fellow in question himself. One of his first observations after a few practice sessions with the other Wildcat gridgers was: "Yeah, I did O. K. in high school, but high school isn't Northwestern; not by a couple hundred touchdowns." On another occasion the quietly determined lad told a newspaperman: "It's a big job, but I'm going to put up a real fight to make good."

In the early weeks of fall practice he was assigned to third team duty along with other members of the buffer corps. Three lettermen have returned at left half, led by Ollie Hahnstein who was the leading ground gainer for the Wildcats last season with an average of 6.2 yards per attempt.

De Correvont's work in the Wildcats' first game, however, stamped him as certain varsity material. Hahnstein, his chief opposition for the left halfback position, fumbled twice to put Northwestern's foes in scoring position.

Jenkins, first string left half, and Thompson, second string right end, were missing from Tuesday's drill. Sophomore Normie Anderson taking over the former's spot and looking impressive in the workout. The lad possesses plenty of drive and promises to make a couple of the regular backs perk up to keep their positions.

CHALLEDON SETS NEW RECORD FOR RACE DISTANCE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 11—Any doubt that W. L. Brann's Challedon is the year's three-year-old champion disappeared today following the hay's smashing of the world's record for a mile and three-sixteenths.

Challedon, in winning the $5,000 Tanter purse in the opening day feature at Keeneland, was clocked in 1:54 3-5. The former mark of 1:55 was set in 1934 at Narragansett by Discovery.

The victory was Challedon's seventh of the year and boosted his total winnings to $236,010.

ALL OVER-CONFIDENCE OF WILDCAT TEAM IS ERASED

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 11—Completely denuded of over confidence by the licking administered by Oklahoma, Northwestern's grid squad today began building up a defense against Ohio State passes. The Wildcats at the same time were given lessons in blocking, a department in which they looked inept last week.

FAMED TURFMAN DIES

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 11—Turf circles today mourned Hal Parr, 62, socially prominent race horse owner and breeder whose Paul Jones captured the Kentucky Derby and the Suburban Handicap in 1920. Parr, who became ill while traveling in Europe and had to return home by a roundabout route because of the war, died last night a few hours after suffering a stroke.

RED AND BLACK OUTFIT IN MUD

Black Sends His Charges Trough Scrimmage On Slippery Footing

Cincinnati Tigers became mud-dens Tuesday evening during a lengthy scrimmage session that saw all members of the squad get some action and then good hot showers. Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong saw their charges go through an exercise period and then put them down to actual work in preparation for Friday's invasion of Frankfort at 2:30 o'clock.

All members of the squad came through the drills in good shape except Clark Martin, first string right guard, whose ankle was turned in the last few minutes of his workout. The injury was believed only a minor one though with Martin expected to be ready to work again this evening.

Coach Black is contemplating no changes in his starting lineup but he warned his linemen Tuesday that they must work hard to keep their places. The Red and Black mentor has about half a dozen guards one of whom is as good as the next, and the ability shown in practice sessions will determine just which pair will get the starting call.

Jenkins, first string left half, and Thompson, second string right end, were missing from Tuesday's drill. Sophomore Normie Anderson taking over the former's spot and looking impressive in the workout. The lad possesses plenty of drive and promises to make a couple of the regular backs perk up to keep their positions.

School officials are still in need of transportation for the squad to Frankfort. Any person having room in his automobile to haul players should call Virgil Cress, faculty manager, at 704.

MICHIGAN, BUCK TEAMS FAVORED IN GRID GAMES

Numerous Big Contests Of Week End Make Guessing Contest Precarious

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Those gay ghoul—the Broadway bookies—have just about convinced us that they have a clearer slant on the general football situation than any coach or selector who is too closely identified with one particular sector.

For instance, we were extremely fortunate last week in picking the winner in 36 out of 44 major football games but the bookies were off in only three or four instances.

"It's not luck," one of the leading bookies told us, as he posted his "early line" for this week's games. "We get pretty good information from all over the country."

"Here's what I mean. You'll hear everybody around town saying that North Carolina is a 2 to 1 bet to lick N. Y. U. but don't you believe it. The information we get is that this game is a toss-up, with N. Y. U. having a great chance to take it. That's why I'm opening these two at 9 to 10 and you pick 'em. Of course, the dough bet changes the odds and I wouldn't be surprised to see N. Y. U. the favorite here by Saturday and North Carolina the favorite down South."

In the 9 to 10 bracket this bookie also has Brown-Colgate, Catholic University-Detroit, Navy-Dartmouth, Duke-Pitt, Georgetown-Syracuse, Rice-Louisiana State, Marquette-Michigan State and Minnesota-Purdue.

Unbeaten Tulane is only 7 to 5 over Fordham and the same goes for Duquesne over Manhattan and Baylor over Arkansas. This last one is surprising but the bookie assured us that he hears Baylor has something this year.

Michigan, Ohio Liked

Michigan is 8 to 5 over Iowa and the same price prevails for Army over Columbia, Kansas State over Colorado and Ohio State over Northwestern.

The kind-hearted bookie suggested that we grab ourselves "a chunk of that Northwestern."

In the 9 to 5 group we find Indiana favored over Wisconsin, Penn over Yale, U. C. L. A. over Stanford and Villanova over Texas Aggies.

Oregon is 2 to 1 over California, Mississippi over Centenary, Harvard over Chicago, Cornell over Princeton, Oklahoma over Texas and Washington over Washington State.

Two close victories haven't effected the sentiment for Notre Dame and so we find the Irish quoted at 5 to 2 over Southern Methodist. Virginia rates the same odds over Maryland and Missouri over Washington University of St. Louis.

Southern California is a 3 to 1 choice to take Illinois and the same figures apply to Mississippi State over Auburn, Utah over Brigham Young, Kansas over Colorado Aggies and Holy Cross over Georgia.

Vanderbilt is 4 to 1 over V. M. I., as is Kentucky over Oglethorpe and Carnegie over Case.

We asked about the Alabama-Mercer and Tennessee-Chattanooga games and the bookie handed us a pencil and paper with the suggestion that we write our own ticket if we thought either Mercer or Chattanooga had a chance.

Buckeye Team To See De Correvont Perform

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11—The fabulous young Mr. William John De Correvont comes to grips with Western Conference football on Saturday in Ohio Stadium when Ohio State and Northwestern meet in the season's first conference encounter for each.

Bill, whose almost legendary gridiron feats at Austin High School in Chicago became a national by-word in 1937, is trying for the left halfback position at Northwestern. And according to reports emanating from the Purple's practice sessions, "trying" is quite the right word for the sophomore ace has three experienced lettermen to contend with besides Don Kruger, another young sophomore of equal abilities.

De Correvont was the center of the greatest publicity frenzy ever accorded a high school football player when he graduated from Austin high school. The lad was caught up in a magic net of millions of words and the question of where he would attend college took on the aspect of a national man hunt. For over a year now he has been under the influence of Coach Lynn Waldorf at Northwestern. Waldorf is one of the best liked coaches in the business. No one has been able to sum up De Correvont's position any better than the young fellow in question himself. One of his first observations after a few practice sessions with the other Wildcat gridgers was: "Yeah, I did O. K. in high school, but high school isn't Northwestern; not by a couple hundred touchdowns." On another occasion the quietly determined lad told a newspaperman: "It's a big job, but I'm going to put up a real fight to make good."

In the early weeks of fall practice he was assigned to third team duty along with other members of the buffer corps. Three lettermen have returned at left half, led by Ollie Hahnenstein who was the leading ground gainer for the Wildcats last season with an average of 6.2 yards per attempt.

De Correvont's work in the Wildcats' first game, however, stamped him as certain varsity material. Hahnenstein, his chief opposition for the left halfback position, fumbled twice to put Northwestern's foes in scoring position.

CHALLENGED SETS NEW RECORD FOR RACE DISTANCE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 11—Any doubt that W. L. Brann's Challenged is the year's three-year-old champion disappeared today following the bay's smashing of the world's record for a mile and three-sixteenths.

Challenged, in winning the $5,000 Tanter purse in the opening day feature at Keeneland, was clocked in 1:54 3-5. The former mark of 1:55 was set in 1934 at Narragansett by Discovery.

The victory was Challenged's seventh of the year and boosted his total winnings to $236,010.

ALL OVER-CONFIDENCE OF WILDCAT TEAM IS ERASED

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 11—Completely denuded of over confidence by the licking administered by Oklahoma, Northwestern's grid squad today began building up a defense against Ohio State passes. The Wildcats at the same time were given lessons in blocking, a department in which they looked inept last week.

FAMED TURFMAN DIES

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 11—Turf circles today mourned Ral Parr, 62, socially prominent race horse owner and breeder whose Paul Jones captured the Kentucky Derby and the Suburban Handicap in 1920. Parr, who became ill while traveling in Europe and had to return home by a roundabout route because of the war, died last night a few hours after suffering a stroke.

RED AND BLACK OUTFIT IN MUD

Black Sends His Charges Trough Scrimmage On Slippery Footing

Circleville Tigers became mudders Tuesday evening during a lengthy scrimmage session that saw all members of the squad get some action and then good hot showers. Coaches Roy Black and Tom Armstrong saw their charges go through an exercise period and then put them down to actual work in preparation for Friday's invasion of Frankfort at 2:30 o'clock.

All members of the squad came through the drills in good shape except Clark Martin, first string right guard, whose ankle was turned in the last few minutes of his workout. The injury was believed only a minor one though with Martin expected to be ready to work again this evening.

Coach Black is contemplating no changes in his starting lineup but he warned his linemen Tuesday that they must work hard to keep their places. The Red and Black mentor has about half a dozen guards one of whom is as good as the next, and the ability shown in practice sessions will determine just which pair will get the starting call.

Jenkins, first string left half, and Thompson, second string right end, were missing from Tuesday's drill. Sophomore Normie Anderson taking over the former's spot and looking impressive in the workout. The lad possesses plenty of drive and promises to make a couple of the regular backs perk up to keep their positions.

School officials are still in need of transportation for the squad to Frankfort. Any person having room in his automobile to haul players should call Virgil Cress, faculty manager, at 704.

Numerous Big Contests Of Week End Make Guessing
Contest Precarious

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—Those gay ghoulies—the Broadway bookies—have just about convinced us that they have a clearer slant on the general football situation than any coach or selector who is too closely identified with one particular sector.

For instance, we were extremely fortunate last week in picking the winner in 36 out of 44 major football games but the bookies were off in only three or four instances.

"It's not luck," one of the leading bookies told us, as he posted his "early line" for this week's games. "We get pretty good information from all over the country."

"Here's what I mean. You'll hear everybody around town saying that North Carolina is a 2 to 1 bet to lick N. Y. U. but don't you believe it. The information we get is that this game is a toss-up, with N. Y. U. having a great chance to take it. That's why I'm opening these two at 9 to 10 and you pick 'em. Of course, the dough bet changes the odds and I wouldn't be surprised to see N. Y. U. the favorite here by Saturday and North Carolina the favorite down South."

In the 9 to 10 bracket this bookie also has Brown-Colgate, Catholic University-Detroit, Navy-Dartmouth, Duke-Pitt, Georgetown-Syracuse, Rice-Louisiana State, Marquette-Michigan State and Minnesota-Purdue.

CAMERA ENTHUSIASTS MEET TO ORGANIZE; BALES NAMED CHAIRMAN

24 PRESENT FOR FIRST MEETING OF LOCAL GROUP

Cloud Effect Photo Taken By Emmet Barnhart Wins Initial Contest

VISITORS DISCUSS WORK

Constitution To Be Offered At Next Gathering On October 24

Twenty-four persons attended a meeting of camera enthusiasts Tuesday night in the Arthur R. Steddom studio to outline plans for a camera club.

Blenn D. Bales was appointed temporary chairman of the organization and Miss Evelyn Wolf temporary secretary. A committee consisting of Miss Ruth Moffitt, M. E. Noggle and Robert Bower was appointed to prepare a constitution for adoption at the next meeting of the group to be held October 24 at 8 p. m.

Frank Harp and Paul Wright, members of the Columbus Photographic Society, were present and discussed activities of the Columbus group and the benefits of a camera society.

Aims Discussed
The aims of the club are to stimulate interest in photography, exchange ideas, conduct discussions on prints from the standpoint of improvements and probably follow the program of other clubs in conducting excursion trips for camera enthusiasts.

Prospective members of the Circleville club submitted prints in a contest. A print of a cloud effect made by Emmet Barnhart was adjudged first place and a portrait photo by James Brown took second place. Mr. and Mrs. Steddom served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Those present included Miss Mary Adele Snider, Lincoln Mader, Mrs. Harriet Henness, Mr. Noggle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Matthes, Mr. and Mrs. Oral E. Lowery, Miss Doris Moffitt, James Reichelderfer, Miss Ruth Moffitt, George Gerhardt, Messrs. Bales, Bower, Brown and Barnhart, Miss Ann Thacher, Tom Brunner, Nelson Sweyer, Leslie Pontius, Miss Harriet McGath, Miss Wolf and Mr. and Mrs. Steddom.

MORE NAMES TO BE REQUIRED TO VOTE ON RIPPER
COLUMBUS, Oct. 11—Nearly 11,000 additional signatures will be necessary to place the referendum on the Bricker administration's civil service "ripper bill" on the November ballot, it appeared today.

With all but the Montgomery County board of elections reported to Secretary of State Earl Griffith on the check of the petitions, 108,884 signatures had been declared valid. A total of 13,015 signatures are being checked in Montgomery County and if the ratio of 17 percent invalidation holds good there, that county's total will be approximately 11,000.

In addition the Democrats, sponsors of the referendum, have 14,579 supplemental on hand. A total of 144,773 valid signatures is required to get the proposal on the ballot. If the number falls short when final certification is made, expected sometime today, the Democrats will have 10 extra days to secure additional signers.

SCHOOLS OF CITY ARRANGE FLOAT FOR FALL EVENT

Circleville schools will have a float in the Pumpkin Show parades. Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools, announced Wednesday that the float will be financed by teachers.

Various school organizations will march in the school parade. Banners featuring the renewal of the three mill levy for the schools will be displayed.

Bromfield's Book in Film

FROM the stirring pages of Louis Bromfield's great novel comes one of the greatest motion pictures ever to reach the screen. "The Rains Came," with Tyrone Power, Myrna Loy, and George Brent in the top roles, is a picture long to be remembered by those who see it.

50 Men Hear Discussion Of Charter Government

Fifty men enjoyed an interesting debate Tuesday evening on the subject "Should Circleville Adopt the City Manager Form of Government?" at the meeting of the Presbyterian Men's Club.

Robert L. Brehmer discussed the affirmative and William M. Reid the negative. A forum followed the debate.

Mr. Brehmer contended that the city manager form of government was a more businesslike system than the present form. He pointed out the divisions of authority under the present form that would be eliminated under the city manager form. Politics would be eliminated from the government, he explained, and he outlined the responsibilities of the manager. "Westerville," Mr. Brehmer explained, "has a city park, supervised playgrounds, no sewer rental charges for its disposal plant, boulevard light, a zoning ordinance, no outside toilets, a building code, plumbing code and with all these improvements a lower tax rate than Circleville."

Reid Hits Expense
Mr. Reid attacked the plan from the standpoint of expense. He contended that it would cost Circleville about $4,000 more annually to operate under the city manager plan. He said administration costs under the present form are more than paid by fines collected in the mayor's court. It was his contention that the cities that have changed to the city manager form were those badly in debt. Circleville, he said, does not face a debt problem and firms are eager to purchase bonds sold by the city. Circleville voters will ballot at the November election on whether they desire a change in the form of government.

Lemuel A. Weldon, secretary-treasurer of the club, presided at the meeting. Joseph Adkins, Jr., was the program chairman. The dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid. Group singing was led by Loren Pace with Miss Abbe Mills Clarke as accompanist.

Fred C. Clark, Aaron Lumpe and Melvin Kiger were appointed on a committee for the next meeting to be held in January.

MORE SHOWERS PREDICTED FOR CENTRAL REGION

Coats were comfortable to Circleville and Pickaway County folk Wednesday after rain amounting to one tenth of an inch broke the unseasonable heat wave.

Highest temperature Tuesday afternoon was 75 degrees. The rain in the afternoon and evening brought a temperature drop of 24 degrees to a low of 51 for the night. The rain is the first recorded this month.

More showers and cool weather were predicted for late Wednesday.

NEWS OF TWO DEATHS IN DETROIT, MICH., LEARNED

News of two deaths during September in Detroit, Mich., has reached Circleville friends of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell. Their daughter, Mrs. Mary Agnes O'Donnell Dick, died September 20 and their son-in-law, Peter Keenan, husband of the former Margaret O'Donnell died a week later.

Mrs. Dick died after an illness of four months, complications following an attack of influenza causing death. Mr. Keenan's death followed a lengthy illness of heart disease.

SHIP BELIEVED SUPPLYING SUBS SPIED IN SOUTH

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Oct. 11—Authorities today sought to learn the true identity of a mysterious freighter, suspected to be the German steamer Havelland, which sailed from Punta Arenas on Sunday, and which was sighted yesterday off the Pacific Coast of Costa Rica.

Bearing the smudged "Avella," the steamer was headed north. No identifying flags were visible but the Hamburg-American liner Sield was said to be still discernible despite a clumsy attempt to paint over it.

When it left Punta Arenas, the Havelland carried 62,000 gallons of oil. It was believed the vessel may act as supply ship for German submarines.

Both were conducted in Detroit. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell were widely known Circleville residents, living for many years in East Ohio Street.

MIAMI PAINT

Painters recommend Miami paint because they can give you a better paint job — a paint that will stand the ravages of weather and time — paint that will not peel, chalk or crack when properly applied.

Painters also prefer Miami paint because it goes on smoothly — saves time and labor — and also, this is very important, because Miami paint covers more surface than many other paints. See us before you buy.

CAMERA ENTHUSIASTS MEET TO ORGANIZE; BALES NAMED CHAIRMAN

24 PRESENT FOR FIRST MEETING OF LOCAL GROUP

Cloud Effect Photo Taken By Emmet Barnhart Wins Initial Contest

VISITORS DISCUSS WORK

Constitution To Be Offered At Next Gathering On October 24

Twenty-four persons attended a meeting of camera enthusiasts Tuesday night in the Arthur R. Steddon studio to outline plans for a camera club.

Blenn D. Bales was appointed temporary chairman of the organization and Miss Evelyn Wolf temporary secretary. A committee consisting of Miss Ruth Moffitt, M. E. Noggle and Robert Bower was appointed to prepare a constitution for adoption at the next meeting of the group to be held October 24 at 8 p. m.

Frank Harp and Paul Wright, members of the Columbus Photographic Society, were present and discussed activities of the Columbus group and the benefits of a camera society.

Aims Discussed

The aims of the club are to stimulate interest in photography, exchange ideas, conduct discussions on prints from the standpoint of improvements and probably follow the program of other clubs in conducting excursion trips for camera enthusiasts.

Prospective members of the Circleville club submitted prints in a contest. A print of a cloud effect made by Emmet Barnhart was adjudged first place and a portrait photo by James Brown took second place. Mr. and Mrs. Steddon served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Those present included Miss Mary Adele Snider, Lincoln Mader, Mrs. Harriet Hennessy, Mr. Noggle, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Matthes, Mr. and Mrs. Oral E. Lowery, Miss Doris Moffitt, James Reichelderfer, Miss Ruth Moffitt, George Gerhardt, Messrs. Bales, Bower, Brown and Barnhart, Miss Ann Thacher, Tom Brunner, Nelson Sweyer, Leslie Pontius, Miss Harriet McGath, Miss Wolf and Mr. and Mrs. Steddon.

MORE NAMES TO BE REQUIRED TO VOTE ON RIPPER

COLUMBUS, Oct. 11—Nearly 11,000 additional signatures will be necessary to place the referendum on the Bricker administration's civil service "ripper bill" on the November ballot, it appeared today.

With all but the Montgomery County board of elections reported to Secretary of State Earl Griffith on the check of the petitions, 108,884 signatures had been declared valid. A total of 13,015 signatures are being checked in Montgomery County and if the ratio of 17 percent invalidation holds good there, that county's total will be approximately 11,000.

In addition the Democrats, sponsors of the referendum, have 14,579 supplemental on hand.

A total of 144,773 valid signatures is required to get the proposal on the ballot. If the number falls short when final certification is made, expected sometime today, the Democrats will have 10 extra days to secure additional signatures.

SCHOOLS OF CITY ARRANGE FLOAT FOR FALL EVENT

Circleville schools will have a float in the Pumpkin Show parades. Frank Fischer, superintendent of schools, announced Wednesday that the float will be financed by teachers.

Various school organizations will march in the school parade. Banners featuring the renewal of the three mill levy for the schools will be displayed.

Bromfield's Book in Film

FROM the stirring pages of Louis Bromfield's great novel comes one of the greatest motion pictures ever to reach the screen. "The Rains Came," with Tyrone Power, Myrna Loy, and George Brent in the top roles, is a picture long to be remembered by those who see it.

50 Men Hear Discussion Of Charter Government

Fifty men enjoyed an interesting debate Tuesday evening on the subject "Should Circleville Adopt the City Manager Form of Government?" at the meeting of the Presbyterian Men's Club.

Robert L. Brehmer discussed the affirmative and William M. Reid the negative. A forum followed the debate.

Mr. Brehmer contended that the city manager form of government was a more businesslike system than the present form. He pointed out the divisions of authority under the present form that would be eliminated under the city manager form. Politics would be eliminated from the government, he explained, and he outlined the responsibilities of the manager. "Westerville," Mr. Brehmer explained, "has a city park, supervised playgrounds, no sewer rental charges for its disposal plant, boulevard light, a zoning ordinance, no outside toilets, a building code, plumbing code and with all these improvements a lower tax rate than Circleville."

Reid Hits Expense
Mr. Reid attacked the plan from the standpoint of expenses. He contended that it would cost Circleville about $4,000 more annually to operate under the city manager plan. He said administration costs under the present form are more than paid by fines collected in the mayor's court. It was his contention that the cities that have changed to the city manager form were those badly in debt. Circleville, he said, does not face a debt problem and firms are eager to purchase bonds sold by the city.

Circleville voters will ballot at the November election on whether they desire a change in the form of government.

Lemuel Avelon, secretary-treasurer of the club, presided at the meeting. Joseph Adkins, Jr., was the program chairman. The dinner was served by the Ladies' Aid. Group singing was led by Loren Pace with Miss Abbe Mills Clarke as accompanist.

Fred C. Clark, Aaron Lumpe and Melvin Kiger were appointed on a committee for the next meeting to be held in January.
